

GLENDALE 1920, 20,000

C. E. ANDERSON OUTLINES POLICY FOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Editor News: In your issue of Tuesday, April 27th, under the caption "New Citizens," I am pleased to note that I was instrumental in inducing Mr. Ward to locate here. You say it was only by accident that he heard of Glendale. True, and for that reason I would urge that the Chamber of Commerce start a systematic plan to place before newcomers the advantages that Glendale has as a place of residence. Thousands of strangers visit Long Beach yearly, many of them looking for a place to locate. If Glendale's advantages could be placed before them properly I venture to say that many of them would decide to come here. I will agree to take care of the distribution of literature descriptive of Glendale to all strangers in Long Beach. Other beach cities should be taken care of in like manner. Photos and pamphlets of Glendale should be placed in all steam and electric railroad stations in and adjacent to Los Angeles. Nearly all towns near Los Angeles have copies of their local papers in the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce for distribution. This helps. I would suggest that the Glendale News and Glendale Press be represented. All incoming trains the year round should be met by a representative from this city.

If every resident of Glendale would start out tomorrow with the firm determination to induce one person to come and live here, our population would double in a short time. Let's have a slogan "Glendale, population 1920, 20,000."

Let's do it. C. E. ANDERSON,
201 N. Louise St.

SPEED THE PARTING GUEST

Mrs. E. C. Copeland of 1618 Colorado street and her mother, Mrs. Mansford, entertained fourteen ladies on Wednesday afternoon as a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Darling, who have been residing in Glendale for some time, but who leave today for their home in Moline, Ills.

The house was aglow with the beauty of many Reve de Or roses. Readings by Mrs. Copeland and Mrs. Wood were happy features of the afternoon, while games of various kinds were enjoyed.

The hostesses served lovely refreshments and each lady presented the guest of honor with a sealed envelope containing a poem, sentiment or personal message to be read by her on her journey eastward.

Those who assisted in this farewell ovation to the departing were Mesdames Bundy, Bradley, Jordan, Springer, Moore, DeMuth, E. S. Hoopes, W. J. Hoopes, Wood, Munn, Coad, Hamil, Cadd, May, the guest of honor and the hostesses.

TUESDAY JUNIOR GIRLS

The Tuesday Junior Girls, a little social club recently organized, held their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon with Misses Louise and Virginia Fambrough. The program consisted of the reading of original stories, which had been written for this meeting. Nice refreshments were served. This club meets every two weeks.

LA CHOTA CLUB

The members of La Chota club were entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. A. D. McCoy, 127 East Third street. The afternoon was spent in fashioning dainty articles of needlework, as is the custom of the club, while tongues flew fast as industrious fingers. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

PROHIBITION AMENDMENTS

There will be a meeting under the auspices of the Woman's Prohibition club of Los Angeles at 953 West Seventh street, that city, Saturday at 3 o'clock to discuss the two proposed amendments for California dry. An address will be given by Hon. D. M. Gandier, followed by a discussion led by Mr. Henry Clay Needham and Mr. George S. Yarnell, in which the audience may participate.

PROMISE ROSES

The committee in charge of decorating the float which will represent Glendale at the Floral Pageant in Los Angeles next Monday are asking for 10,000 roses from the gardens of Glendale. A number of the citizens have already responded, Mr. Fred Deal of 211 South Louise street having promised the committee five hundred blossoms to be used in decorating the float.

SCHOOL BUSINESS

TRUSTEES OF CITY SCHOOLS IN WEEKLY SESSION—HEACOCK RETIRES

The board of trustees of the city schools met in regular session Thursday evening with Trustees Heacock and Todd present. The reading of the minutes was dispensed with until later in the session.

A committee from the Doran street Parent-Teacher association, with Miss Hatch as their spokesman, was present and explained the necessity of electric lights, a telephone and a piano in their school building, and were assured the needed equipment would be furnished as soon as possible.

A delegation from the Pacific avenue school was also present and urged that a piano be purchased for that school.

Mr. L. E. Brockman was appointed to get prices from local dealers if any and if not to purchase the pianos in Los Angeles. Mr. Brockman was also instructed to purchase one and a half dozen chairs for the sewing tables in the domestic science room.

Mr. Lyons of the Barbra Chemical company of Los Angeles was present and addressed the board in regard to the soap fixtures which his company loaned the school district some three years ago, with the verbal understanding that the board use Soap-ozone purchased from his company at $1 per gallon, or the board was given the right to purchase the fixtures outright for $2.50 each and buy their liquid soap in the open market or lease the fixtures at 75 cents each indefinitely and buy the Soap-ozone of them at 80 cents per gallon. By agreement of parties concerned, the matter was laid over until next meeting.

Mr. C. K. Robertshaw was instructed to place numbers on the 150 lockers recently installed in the Intermediate school.

Work was ordered stopped for a few days on the front of the Intermediate school.

The members of the board seemed to think that the towers on the front were going to be entirely too high when completed and asked Mr. Robertshaw to suspend work until Monday and in the meantime they would visit other new buildings in nearby towns for the matter of comparison.

Mr. Todd was instructed to have picture molding placed in the halls of the West Glendale school to enable the pupils to hang their exhibits on display for their patrons' day exercises. Burlap was ordered placed in the Intermediate school on which to hang their exhibits for the patrons' day and school exhibit exercises.

Each school in the district will have a patrons' day and school exhibit one day before the close of school, but each school will have a separate day.

Superintendent White has arranged for the exercises at the Intermediate school on May 21st, and expects to have a very large and attractive display of the work done in the school the past year, and has made arrangements for the exhibits to remain on display during the Glendale Festival of Fruits and Flowers, so that visitors may see the class of work done in our schools.

Mr. Heacock, the retiring member of the board, made a short farewell talk in which he stated that he had served the people of this district to the very best of his ability and had tried to keep harmony in the schools and had endeavored at all times to keep the schools of Glendale up and abreast of the times. He thanked his associates for the courteous treatment accorded him while a member of the board.

The following claims were allowed and ordered paid:

E. K. Daniels, $21.
J. W. Durham, $139.74.
C. K. Robertshaw, $470.
Jones Book Store, $7.11.

MAY PARTY TONIGHT

A May party of unusual interest and many attractive features will be held at the First Congregational church this evening. The members of the Woman's Auxiliary have been busy for some time preparing for this annual event. The members have each been earning a dollar. How this was done will be told in original poetry. An interesting program will be rendered and refreshments served. A May pole is to be one of the many features.

Mrs. Blake Franklin, Mrs. W. H. Yarrick and Mrs. E. O. Von Oven compose the general committee that is in charge. The program committee consists of Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. R. G. Paine. Committee on refreshments, Mrs. S. R. Frazier, Mrs. I. J. McReynolds and Mrs. J. M. Miner.

The public is cordially invited; the admission, program and refreshments are all free.

HOME WEDDING

LOUISE RINGSSELL BECOMES THE BRIDE OF HARRY ENGMAN AT PRETTY WEDDING

A pretty home wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson, 1437 West First street, on Thursday evening, when Miss Louise Ringsell became the bride of Mr. Anderson's son, Mr. Harry Engman.

The home had been beautifully decorated for this happy event, a color scheme of white, pink and green having been used in the various rooms. Bouquets of white brides' roses and Cecil Brunners blended their beauty with the rich green of ferns and formed a perfect setting for a wedding. In one corner of the parlor a rose bower had been arranged and promptly at half past eight the officiating clergyman, Dr. C. Irving Mills, rector of St. Mark's, entered the room to the strains of a bridal march played by Mrs. Pearl Zader of Los Angeles. He was followed by the groom attended by Mr. Harry Coker, Jr., and lastly came the bride, charming in a gown of white crepe de chine with a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley and carrying orange blossoms and attended by her bridesmaid, Miss Edith Engman. The bride party took their places beneath a bell of Cecil Brunner roses, where Dr. Mills read the beautiful and impressive Episcopal ring service.

Following the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining-room, where everything was in white, brides' roses and white streamers having been used. A five-course wedding dinner was served and at midnight the happy bride and groom departed amid the usual accompaniment of rice and old shoes, for San Diego, where they will spend their honeymoon enjoying the delights of the exposition.

Mr. Engman is a young man most favorably known here. He is associated with Mr. Anderson as a builder and contractor. His bride is a charming and accomplished lady who came from London, England, three years ago and for more than a year she has been employed in the office of the Valley Supply company.

Mr. and Mrs. Engman were the recipients of many handsome and practical gifts, among them a substantial gift of gold from her parents and sisters in London.

On their return from their wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Engman will reside for the present at the Anderson home.

Among the guests who witnessed the pretty ceremony Thursday night were Delpia Anderson, Alexander Anderson, Edith Engman, Fred Engman, Albert Engman, Harry Coker, Jr., Mrs. Harry P. Coker, Mrs. Georgia Miller, Mrs. T. E. Riggs, Mrs. Ada Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Helfenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Webb, Miss Lois Webb, Dolliver Webb, Mrs. J. M. Ward, Miss Florence Ward, Cora F. Ward, Thomas E. Riggs, Rae Riggs, Pearl Zader, C. F. Glascoe, A. T. Verdick and Annabelle Houlihan.

ENTERTAINS CLASS

Miss Field's class of the Presbyterian Sunday school met Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. J. Clendenin, 246 Orange street. The house was beautifully decorated with roses and a most enjoyable time was had with music and games. Dainty refreshments were served. Those present were Miss B. Field, Anabel McClellan, Ruth Gray, Elizabeth Lyons, Beth MacPherson, Thelma Rupp, Cora Louise Butterfield, Marjorie Nye, Helen Beggs and Marie Maier.

RED CROSS AUXILIARY

A Southern California Auxiliary to the British Red Cross society has been organized in Los Angeles to render assistance to the latter organization during the conflict that is raging abroad. This organization will hold a big mass meeting at Trinity auditorium, Ninth and Grand, Los Angeles, on Sunday afternoon, May 23, at 3 o'clock. There will be a fine program of music and addresses by noted speakers. There will be a collection taken for Red Cross work.

LECTURES BY DR. COULTAS

Dr. Coultas, pastor of the First Methodist church of Whittier, gave an interesting lecture on the "Parable of the Kingdoms" before a large and appreciative audience at the First M. E. church of this city Thursday evening. Tonight his subject will deal with "The Schofield Bible—What It Is and What It Teaches." He will discuss the question as to whether there is any such thing as a "limited atonement" and "can all men be saved?" Everyone is invited to tonight's lecture, which is free. The hour is 7:45.

TROPICO ITEMS

TROPICO CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS—KENSINGTON CLUB HOLDS MEETING

The Tropico Thursday Afternoon club will meet at the home of Mrs. A. H. Gaarder, 323 North Glendale avenue, Thursday, May 6th. Mrs. Gaarder will be assisted by Mrs. Mary Ayers, Mrs. Frank E. Peters, Mrs. J. A. Stone and Dr. Jessie A. Russell. The annual election of officers will occur at this time. The nominating committee, comprising Mrs. Edward M. Lynch, Mrs. C. H. Woolsey, Mrs. John A. Logan, Mrs. W. C. Anderson and Mrs. Clarence M. Goode, have arranged the list of officers which will be submitted to the club for election. No name has been secured for the presidency, but the following ladies' names appear on the election list: Mrs. Charles A. Barker, vice-president; Mrs. C. H. Woolsey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Henry T. Goodwin, recording secretary; Miss Ida M. Meyers, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph H. Webster, delegate at large. Miss Gladys Caruthers, from the Cumnook School of Expression, will give a reading, "The War Bride."

The Kensington club held a most interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Jessie Hudson on Milford street Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Hudson was assisted by Mrs. Thomas Atkinson, Mrs. Elizabeth Spafford, Mrs. William Tiffany and Mrs. Jack Hammond. Despite the inclemency of the weather, there were a large number of members present, as well as guests. Mrs. Nanno Woods rendered several delightful vocal solos and readings. Mrs. C. W. Heinen also delighted the ladies with readings.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal H. Davenport are entertaining at their house guests Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Parrish of Grand Rapids, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Parrish, who are cousins of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lunn, parents of Mrs. Davenport, have been touring this western coast the past three months. Today these interesting visitors are at Baldwin Park. Later they will return to the Davenport home and enjoy all the Fiesta festival before returning to their home in the East.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Welton, the former a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Hal H. Davenport, arrived from San Francisco for a few days' visit with their Tropico relatives.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. H. E. Bowman gave a small but delightful bridge party at her home, 112 West Tropico avenue. The guests present were Mrs. Leigh Bancroft, Mrs. Robert H. Kimball, Mrs. Ralph Stone, Mrs. E. L. Eames, Mrs. H. T. Goodwin, Mrs. C. R. Bennett and Mrs. A. H. Gaarder.

VIOLIN RECITAL

A very delightful program was rendered at the Seventh Day Adventist church Thursday evening by Miss Susine Wessels, the talented little violinist who has made quite a stir in Glendale since her recent arrival from England, where she was studying with Wilhelm. Numbers by Mr. George B. Miller, pianist, and the sanitarium male quartet were also pleasing features of the program.

AMUSING PARADE

EIGHTH GRADE PUPILS ADVERTISE SHOW WITH AN UNIQUE PARADE

The parade arranged by the graduating class of the Intermediate school for this afternoon promises to be one of the most amusing ever held in Glendale. This is to start at 4 p. m. sharp from the Intermediate school and traverse some of the most prominent streets. The tickets for the class benefit to be given tonight are selling rapidly. Great enthusiasm is shown by the class, which numbers over ninety-two members and is the largest ever graduated from that school.

The girls of the class have won many complimentary notices for their sensible decision relative to simple graduation costumes, having chosen white middie suits with green ties, the costumes carrying out their class colors. This is the first eighth grade class in the county to take such action. The boys' band from the Whittier state school will give a street concert preceding the show, which begins at 7 and 8:30 at the Majestic, and also between the acts. The band is considered one of the finest boys' bands in the state.

Order of Parade

- Band from high school.
- Auto—heralds and trumpeters.
- Horseback—Paul Revere.
- Horseback—Colonial ladies.
- Auto—Colonial ladies.
- In pushmobile—Slippery Slim; clown with green snake.
- Wagon, farmer lads and lassies.
- Pushmobile—John Bunny.
- Auto, fat men, the Bunny tribe.
- Autos—clowns.

Chauncey Kolts is president of the class and is one of the most enthusiastic of the workers. The committee are:

Committee on parade—Mildred McKee, Lucile Nichols, Thomas McIver, Robert Blackburn and Gladys Mason. Candy committee—Virginia McMaster, Gladys Mason, Gladys Manning, Kenneth Whaley and Arthur Whipple.

Committee on arrangements—Harold Russell, Helen Swenson, Homer Plannette, Louise Hester, Raymond Fannett and Marion Addison.

Committee on posters—Freda Baker, Helen Swenson, Homer Plannette, Arville Williams and Robert Dewar.

BAPTISTS ATTEND BROWN AND CURRY MEETINGS

Thursday evening three auto trucks filled with members of the Young People's society and members of the Baptist church, went to the Brown and Curry meetings at Pasadena. Including those who went in private machines, over a hundred Glendaleites attended the evangelistic meetings.

MISS LANDMANN SOLOIST

Miss Clementina Landmann was the soprano soloist at the reception given by the Eastern Star at the new Masonic temple, Pico and Figueroa streets, Los Angeles, on April 29th. She charmed her audience and gave as an encore "The Rosary." Her accompanist was Mrs. Beveridge of Glendale.

Miss Landmann is moving her studio on May 1st, as her mother has rented the cottage next to Mr. Alfred Landmann's bungalow, vacant by the death of Mrs. Sloan's mother, the late Mrs. Harrison. Her new address is 1554 West Myrtle street, Glendale, where she will be pleased to receive her pupils.

LOCAL FILM WORK

GLENDALE KALEM COMPANY IS PUTTING ON NEW SERIAL PICTURE FILM

The Glendale Kalem company, under the direction of Jimmie Horne, are getting the Glendale studio on Verdugo road enlarged in order to put on a series of two-reel "hotel girl detective pictures." This week twenty carpenters have been busily working at the studio erecting one of the biggest hotel lobby scenes ever used in a motion picture. The heroine of this new serial picture will be Marin Sais, who will be supported by Ollie Kirkby, Tom Linghan, William Herman West, Frank Jonasson, Paul Hurst, Eddie Clisbee, etc. In addition to the principals, many of the scenes will call for sixty or more people.

Arrangements are being made to equip the Glendale Kalem studio with artificial lights, so that pictures may be taken during cloudy and rainy weather.

April was a busy month at the studio, many outside companies taking advantage of local scenic settings. As many as twenty companies at a time were using the Kalem studio a couple of days last week.

Arthur Shirley of the local Kalem company is going with the Universal outfit in the near future.

HONOR MRS. BENNETT

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Keogh of the Mason apartments, 1020½ Chestnut street, entertained a party of young people Thursday evening as a surprise for Mrs. Guy Bennett, who is soon to return to her home in Minnesota. The evening was pleasantly spent in dancing and singing and a two-course luncheon was served.

Those present besides the host and hostess and the guest of honor were Misses Mildred and Dorothea Keogh, Ruth Fairchild, Nora Smith and Anna Nueting, Messrs. Roy Smith, Emil Keifer and James Mason.

ROSES—ROSES—ROSES

Ten Thousand Roses are needed to decorate the float and several autos which will represent the city of Glendale at the Flower Pageant to be held Monday, May 3, in Los Angeles. All who have roses that they are willing to donate for this good cause please call the city manager's office—Sunset Glendale 714 or Home 1254.

All kinds of roses are wanted. Cut them with long stems and the committee will call for them Saturday afternoon.

We all want to see Glendale well represented upon that important occasion. An abundance of roses are necessary. We want to use nothing but Glendale valley roses.

Please phone today.
215t4 COMMITTEE.

DISTANT FRIENDS

Write your distant friends that April has been a month of showers in Southern California. There has been a rainfall of about two inches during the month. The past few days have been days of frequent showers. Old settlers say such weather is very favorable for vegetable growth. The showers are followed by cool weather, which is also favorable for fruit development.

PRINTED IN GLENDALE

The Glendale Union high school annual Stylus, which is to be issued by the senior class of the school, will be printed in Glendale this year. The Glendale Evening News office has been awarded the contract by the staff, and the local merchants are assured that every cent expended on the Stylus will remain in this city, in so far as it is the ability of the staff to carry out this policy.

The photography will be done by Maranville of the Glengarry studio and Weston of Tropico. The engraving will be done by the Aristo Engraving company of Los Angeles, who did such excellent work on the Evening News anniversary edition last fall. The book this year will contain a number of new art features, among which will be the reproduction of the pictures of the school, which are on display at the Panama-Pacific exposition, San Francisco.

The advance sale of the Stylus assures a circulation of nearly five hundred copies. The boys are out at the present time soliciting advertising and a number of merchants are giving liberal support to the project. It will be necessary, however, to ask those who have not already promised advertising to do so soon if they wish to be represented in this beautiful publication of literary art.

“Composing references for her discharged help, I understand.”—Boston Transcript.

There are no cloudy days in the life of the optimist. Even if the sun may be shut from view, the optimist knows the sun is shining, and the light radiates in upon the soul. Clouds do not interfere with the brightness of the life of an optimist.

There are too few independent thinkers in this world. The fault of the average man is that he follows the herd. He allows a leader to do his thinking. Men should early in life learn to be independent thinkers. Self thinkers are good citizens.

VALLEY VIEW

C. H. Darling and wife, who have been living in their own home at 1628 Oak street, went to Los Angeles today and after a two days' visit with relatives there will go back to their old home in Moline, Ill., to stay two years. They have rented their place here to Mr. and Mrs. Goad.

Frank Bradley, wife and baby will return today from San Francisco to visit again with his mother at 1617 Oak street.

S. C. Andrews and wife moved on Thursday from 1564 Oak street to 1452 West Fifth street, young Mr. Haines' new house.

Vine street and Colorado boulevard seem to be favorite tryouts for auto and motorcycle speeders, probably because motor cops never are seen thereabouts. A few days ago an auto went down Vine street at fully forty to forty-five miles an hour and back at almost as great a speed. Both autos and motorcycles frequently speed up to forty miles or more on Colorado. As both these streets are quite well populated with children, such outlawry is very dangerous.

Valley View is to have a concrete dwelling house. A five-room house of this construction is being put up by a Los Angeles man on the lot at 1610 West Seventh street.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stanton of Arden avenue, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilbur of San Rafael street, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Eastman of Burchett street and Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Maranville were among the guests who were entertained at a beautifully appointed dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mart of Los Angeles at their home very recently complimentary to Mr. Mart, who celebrated his birthday at that time. Covers were laid for twenty-six and a full course dinner was enjoyed, the other guests being from Los Angeles and near by.

Mr. Burt Wilson of Los Angeles was the guest of his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of 1636 Ruth street the first of the week.

Mrs. J. W. Cousins and Mrs. Viola Yorba of North Glendale were among the guests who were delightfully entertained at a luncheon party and shower given by Mrs. Helen Veslich of 530 South Brand boulevard last Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Florence Calderwood of Hollywood, who will become the bride of Albert J. Rigali at an early date. The affair was very charming in every detail, the fair bride-to-be receiving many dainty and useful gifts that will be happy reminders of the occasion. About twenty guests enjoyed the delightful time and were from Glendale, Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Eastman of 1521 Burchett street entertained as their guests at dinner Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. George Morse of Los Angeles, who motored out to North Glendale.

Mrs. E. E. Mansfield of Rosebery avenue, Florence is the house guest of her brother and family, Mr. O. E. Wright of 1649 Ruth street, for the week.

Mrs. J. W. Cousins of 1501 Lorraine street, with her son, Master Kenneth; Mrs. Harry Sohner and children, Marion and Harry, of Viola avenue, and Mrs. J. Knouse of Los Angeles, enjoyed an automobile ride over to Griffith park and around the beautiful hill drive very recently.

Friends of Mrs. J. E. Howes of 1605 Ruth street will be very glad to hear that she is reported a little better, although very seriously ill yet and unable to see anyone. Mrs. Lillian Judd of San Rafael street is her nurse.

LIFE AS LIVED

Seventy-six years ago, in one of the beautiful coast towns of Maine, lying at the head of its most beautiful and largest bay, were born three boys—Bill, Jim and Al. Bill's parents were good folks, members of the Congregational church, of which the father was a deacon, and at the same time postmaster of the village. They were kind, loving, indulgent to their children, but as so many are, they were like Eli—easy and did not restrain them or teach them to obey, either themselves or God.

Bill was a smart, rollicking, headstrong lad, needing to be taught truth and right, and to be held steadily with a firm, wise authority and made to obey. But the parents were lenient and it was too much trouble to do this, and so they let Bill do about whatever he liked or took a notion to do. Besides, as they were well fixed, and had plenty of money, they gave him money to spend as he wished, with scarcely any attention as to what he did with it, or any care or instruction as to what he should do with it. They did not teach him that both he and all he had belonged to God and should be used under his guidance and will. Left to himself, Bill rapidly became a spendthrift, carousing, smoking, drinking, swearing, Sabbath breaking, dancing and worse. At last, when it was too late, his parents began to wake up. But he would not be controlled. His father shut down on his money and he went into the postoffice and robbed it to get money to spend. The government arrested him, proved him guilty, and were going to send him to the penitentiary. It cost the father quite a fortune to keep him out, besides the public disgrace, for a lifetime, together with the heartache.

Thirty-five hundred years ago from the mountain top, amid clouds and a tempest of lightning and rolling thunder, with the voice of a trumpet, God said to three million people and to the world, so that they should hear and obey forever, "Honor thy father and mother, that may be well with thee and that thou mayest live long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

Fifteen hundred years later the wise man said what is always true and is just as true today, that "children left to themselves will bring their parents to shame."

The three boys grew up, played, and went to the same public and private school together. They went swimming often together. Bill was smart, quick and a natural leader in all their sports. He became the most expert swimmer in the crowd. At the age of fifteen Al, having a passion to see the world and to get money and spend it, shipped on a 1200-ton ship and started to sea. He has been seeing ever since. About the same time Bill's father, disgraced, chagrined, distracted and unable to do anything with him, concluded to send him to sea, hoping that ship discipline and authority might make something out of him and cure him of his disobedience and bad habits.

It so happened that both Bill and Al went to the same state, South Carolina, and to the same river, the Wakama, and the same place, Bucks-ville, for the same purpose, to get a shipload of hard pine timber for the building of ships.

The Sabbath came and as is the custom on board ships, to wash down decks and clean up for the Sabbath, we were doing this. Bill was swaggering, smoking and swearing profanely. Some of the boys shocked at his profanity rebuked him. He only swore the more. He started to go over the bow swearing. One of the boys said to him: "Better be careful, Bill, or God will take you at your word and drown you." He ripped out profanely, "God Almighty couldn't drown me." He went along and some how tumbled over the gang-plank, went down and never came up. It is supposed that an alligator took him. That is the end.

There are several lessons to this. A dead pall settled over the entire region at this judgment of God against wickedness. Again, children take care to honor and obey your parents. Parents, be kind and just and hold your children to obey God and yourselves with a steady and firm authority. And be sure that you do not make them spendthrifts by giving them money to spend as they like and so contract habits that will destroy them. Teach them that they and all they have belong to God and that they have no right to use it otherwise than as he wills. And always remember that what you sow you will reap, and there is no exception.

God never holds the swearer guiltless. (Jim next.)

A. B. SMART.

Mrs. Clara Colby is authority for the statement that it was Mrs. Christopher Columbus who discovered America. Indeed! And now, Mrs. Colby, who created the world?

We often hear that "the Lord loveth a cheerful giver." But nowhere is it said that the Lord loves the one who cheerfully gives needless pain or offense to others.

CIVIC WATER PROBLEMS

Now that the city of Glendale's public service department has taken over the water system of the Verdugo Springs Water company and the Verdugo Pipe and Reservoir company's holdings, important developments in the civic water system may be expected.

Glendale has long been struggling with the problems arising out of the varied and imperfect water systems that have been striving to render adequate service to the city; and out of that struggle important principles have been evolved. One thing is manifest. With the complete assumption of the individual water companies the civic water problems will be put up fairly to the community at large. The situation that will thus be developed will demand careful and delicate handling.

Divergent views prevail as to the best methods for reorganizing the civic water system and developing the supply. Reliable public opinion points to a demand for careful and conservative consideration of the new situation, with cautious and deliberate development along rational lines, in order to avoid at the outset mistakes that could not be remedied except by burdensome expenditure and after tedious delay.

In dealing with the water problems it must always be remembered that they are inevitably and unalterably bound up with the arch-problem of all—the development of the Greater Glendale. With this greater problem in view any water system the public service department may conclude to install must make provision not only for the present, but also for the future.

Under the old company system Glendale has suffered in certain localities from inadequate pressure. The old systems were comparatively primitive and without sufficient elevation. Some of them were crude; and in one district at least there has never been sufficient pressure for fire protection.

It will now be Glendale's own fault should there be future complaints of contamination of the water supply. Nowhere throughout California is there better natural water than that with which Glendale has been supplied. It is admirably soft and pure. Chemical analysis reveals an ideal water, both for drinking and domestic purposes; yet this excellent natural commodity has sometimes been contaminated from surface sources. For its own protection the community needs to be assured that a modern, up-to-date system be now installed—a system where no contamination is possible and where the pressure will be uniform and adequate.

There should be little difficulty encountered in securing for Glendale the very best water system possible. This city has at its command the recent experience of more than a score of modern cities throughout the United States and can choose the best features of each. Should this be done after due and wise deliberation and with the aid of expert advice, Glendale would find that its acquisition of the old water systems was a wise step.

"Hasten slowly" was a wise maxim of the Romans who constructed many of the water systems and aqueducts of the ancient world. The value of that principle is seen in the fact that quite a number of those ancient aqueducts are still in use. They would all probably be working still had not the greater number of them been destroyed in the course of the ruthless wars of the centuries.

That principle may be profitably remembered at the present juncture. It is possible to make mistakes now that might be detrimental to the city's future interests and might tie up the city with burdens to an indefinite future.

However, it is satisfactory to reflect that those in charge of the city's water interests have vision wide enough to take in the future and knowledge sufficient to provide for the present.

ONE LINE OF BUSINESS

There is a tendency among merchants to use side attractions to gain business patronage. The man who is engaged in the grocery business gets the strange notion that it is necessary for him to offer a premium of some kind to attract people to his store to make purchases. The dry goods man thinks that it is necessary for him, too, to offer a chromo of some kind to make his silks and velvets sufficiently attractive to get purchasers. The hardware man goes out of his line of business and offers a trip to the Panama exposition, or so many votes for a metropolitan paper to the man who will purchase so many dollars' worth of his merchandise.

The furniture man is homeopathic in his make-up and believes that something with a sugar coating will bring him extra trade, so he displays in his window the trading stamp's allurements. Even publishers become dissatisfied with the monotony of their every-day straight line of business and offer automobiles, pianos, sewing machines, Panama exposition trips and many other inducements to gain subscribers for their publications.

So it is all along the line. The merchants and publishers who engage in these side methods of doing business have undoubtedly reason for doing so, but it has always seemed to the editor of the Evening News that a man who engages in any one business will succeed much better if he carries only the merchandise for that line of business. All of these premiums and trips offered cost somebody money, and eventually it is the consumer who is required to pay for them. If a merchant has any inducements to offer, the inducements should be in the way of better quality of merchandise and better clerk service and better delivery service.

The most desirable buyers wish to get only that which they need. They do not care, when giving a five dollar grocery order, to get an aluminum kettle, or a carpet sweeper, or a cheap clock, or some other piece of merchandise not usually kept by grocers. The premiums cost money and the purchaser would rather have that amount in groceries than in something that he does not need. The man who plans to take a trip to Denver prefers to ride on the train that is going direct to Denver, and not on a train that sidetracks at every small station, and will take twice the time to make the trip.

So it is with the wise buyer. He wishes to buy a good quality of merchandise at a reasonable price and does not care to have a few extras tacked on that in reality give him an inferior quality of merchandise, or else he gets less in quantity. The proposition is merely a business one. You cannot get something for nothing. If you have one dollar to spend for sugar, you cannot get a full dollar's worth of sugar and a tin pail worth ten cents for one dollar. You would better buy the tin pail when you need it and get the extra ten cents in sugar, whether it be in quantity or quality.

Passing a dry goods store a few days ago the editor saw in the window several photographs, and connected with them was a placard reading, "To get these in your home, inquire inside." There was very little display in the window of the regular merchandise usually carried in a dry goods store.

Now in the name of common sense, why not place in the window merchandise such as is kept in the store, giving price of same, and leaving the picture business to the art gallery or the firm which deals exclusively in that line of work? The time is near at hand when shrewd buyers will understand that these side offers are only thrown out as a bait and it is to their business interests to patronize the dealers who handle only the merchandise in their own line of business.

THIRTY PIECES OF SILVER

The student's library at the San Diego exposition has besides a collection of books by California writers, installed by the Woman's Press club, a number of very good pictures on the walls, the most notable being "Thirty Pieces of Silver," by Dollman loaned by Alfred Mosely of London. The picture represents Judas overcome by remorse. His face is obscured by his hair, and beside him on the ground is the money, the price of his betrayal. The whole scheme is one of black despair.

The picture stands out from the others by the very force of its conception, and instantly attracts the attention of all visitors. A woman temporarily in charge of the room the other morning was immensely diverted by the widely varying comments upon it.

A large blonde with a ducky little Tipperary hat perched over one eye, and having in her wake a somewhat insignificant masculine admirer, was the first visitor.

"What is that?" she inquired haughtily of the woman in charge.

"Thirty Pieces of Silver," was the answer, and then, seeing no look of comprehension on the face of the questioner, the woman added:

"It is Judas Iscariot." Still the lady in the Tipperary hat looked blank.

"Aw, girlie, you know—it's the Bible," said the masculine acquaintance.

"Oh, the Bible," said the blonde lady in a supercilious tone. "No, I've never read it. Come, Dudley." And they departed.

An extremely conscientious young woman with a note-book came next. She consulted the catalogue. "Thirty Pieces of Silver," she read aloud. With no comment whatever, the young woman walked over to the picture and carefully counted the coins.

"There are only twenty-three," she said in a tone of bitter injury.

A mother and little daughter then strolled in and stood for a moment in silence before the painting.

"Mother, what is that?" asked the little girl. The mother gave her a reproving look.

"Why, can't you see? It's a lady drying her hair."

"Well, the poor nut," came from the next visitor.

"Well," the man began, "this here geezer has been prospectin' over in Death valley. He has been out fur a long spell. You can see yourself he needs a haircut." The woman nodded, completely entranced by this flight of fancy. "He has lost his way, his water give out and he has gone plumb batty. You notice he has tore off all his clothes but his shirt? They allus do that when the thirist gits 'em."

"He sees this here bag and the poor bug thinks it's full of water. Of course," the man added in an explanatory tone to his delighted listener, "of course it's small fur a canteen, but he is too fur gone to notice that. He grabs the water bag and he finds it full of gold. Right here is where he croaks."

The lurid story gave the big man so much pleasure that the woman could not bear to undecieve him. When she saw him last he was leaving the room still sorrowfully wagging his head and muttering: "Poor gink; plum looded!"

Fellow in Colorado got his name in the papers by paying a debt after forty years. Shoot! We know a lady who has owed a debt for fifty years and NEVER intends to pay it.

One must espouse some pursuit, taking it kindly at heart and with enthusiasm.—A. Bronson Alcott.
